OTHER LAWYERS

Less detailed listings, which leads to more back-and-forth questions before the buyer can even decide if they're interested in your practice.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS

Generic real estate listings backed by their own appraisals, which inflate practice values to benefit their commission-based pricing and risk losing buyers.

Dr. G.

I just sold my dental practice that I owned for 25 years. Even though deciding to sell wasn't an easy one, the process itself was really different than what I was prepared for. From day one, all my issues and problems (and I had plenty) were under control. In no time, my litigation with a previous employee, a really bad contract with an HR company, my lease renewal, and my employee contracts were taken care of.

DMC guided me from the first minute to the end, making the most difficult steps seem so easy. From the open house to the transfer of the business, I felt that I was working with a team that had the experience and knowledge and really cared about my interests. They were always available to help me and answer all my questions.

I want to thank DMC from the bottom of my heart for all the guidance, hard work, help, knowledge and support.
